ORIENTAL ADVENTURE

- 11 Lion sculptures have traditionally been used in China to stand guard outside imperial palaces. Here the Sicilian Lions paper DVIWS1103 from Sanderson's Vintage collection recalls that tradition and would look perfect in an Oriental style room. £40 per roll.

- 12 The traditional Chinese character Guo means 'the best in the country', and the Guo dining chair uses stylistic calligraphy as part of its design. Created in a shining black lacquered finish by Benoît Lienard, available from La Compagnie Française de l'Orient et de la Chine, £665.

- 13 The mix of black and red lacquers, along with the ladder detail, give this Libera bathroom from Novello an Oriental flavour. Modular units can be specified in many colours such as the Coral red, Amaranto red and Anthracite shown. Configuration with glass top, £2,070.

- 14 Oriental influences are all over Mark Wilkinson's Shan Gara kitchen, which features sliding doors resembling traditional Japanese rice paper Shoji screens, concealing hidden prep areas. Shown in walnut with red salmon leather and a silver leaf splashback. Kitchens from £35,000.

- 15 The dark wood and clean lines of the dining chairs and table along with the orchids, stone coloured walls and subtle lighting all contribute to a fresh yet contemplative setting for this Oriental-themed dining room, designed by Mena Interiors. Price on request.
